3.5.2	Secondary rate concepts — Rate terms for use if required for specific purposes ^{3 3} 3.5.1 lists the five principal rate concepts that are necessary for the majority of mode descriptions. Situations might arise where alternative rate concepts are required. Most of these may be formed as post-coordinated terms comprising combinations of simpler terms already defined in this document. The four such terms entered in this subclause are provided only as examples of possible post-coordinated terms.
