ISO/IEC TR 17026:2015-02 (E)

Conformity assessment - Example of a certification scheme for tangible products

Contents

Page

Foreword iv

Introduction v

1 Scope 1

2 Normative references 1

3 Terms and definitions 1

4 General description of the example scheme 1
4.1 Development and operation of a product certification scheme 1
4.2 Outline of the example product certification scheme 2
4.3 Scope of the scheme 3
4.4 Parties involved in the scheme 3
4.5 Selection elements in the scheme 3
4.6 Sampling processes in the scheme 4
4.7 Determination procedures of the scheme 4

5 Sequence of a certification cycle and involved activities 4
5.1 Application for certification and certification agreement 4
5.2 Determination 4
5.3 Assessment of the production process and audit of the management system 6
5.4 Nonconformities 8
5.5 Evaluation report 8
5.6 Review 8
5.7 Decision 8
5.8 Attestation 8
5.9 Licensing use of certificates and marks of conformity 9
5.10 Surveillance 11

6 Publicity by clients 12

7 Changes affecting certification 12
7.1 Changes to product requirements 12
7.2 Changes to other scheme requirements 13
7.3 Changes by client 13

8 Confidentiality 13

9 Product liability 14

10 Complaints and appeals 14

Annex A (informative) Example of information provided with an application for product certification 15

Annex B (informative) Example of information on production process and management system. 17

Annex C (informative) Example of information to be included in a certificate of conformity 20

Annex D (informative) Example of contents of a licensing agreement for the use of a certificate and mark of conformity 21

Annex E (informative) Example of information to be included in a licence for the use of a certificate or mark of conformity 24

Annex F (informative) Example of contents of a certification agreement 25

Bibliography 27