ISO 12967-2:2009-08 (E)

Health informatics - Service architecture - Part 2: Information viewpoint

Contents

Page

Foreword v

Introduction vi

1 Scope 1

2 Normative references 1

3 Terms and definitions 2

4 Symbols and abbreviations 2

5 Methodological principles 2
5.1 Language and notation adopted for the specification of the model (informative) 2
5.2 UML Class Diagram notation guidelines and profile (informative) 3
5.3 Clusters of objects in the information model 4
5.4 Operational and descriptive information: classifications, knowledge and its instantiation 5
5.5 DataTypes 7
5.6 Organization of the document 8

6 General characteristics of the model 9
6.1 Common structure of each information object: the GenericHisaClass 9
6.2 UML diagram 10
6.3 Specification of Generic HISA Class 11
6.3.1 General 11
6.3.2 Class: Set of structured attributes 11
6.3.3 Class: Set of class specific attributes 11
6.3.4 Class: Set of common attributes 11
6.3.5 Class: Set of system attributes 12
6.3.6 Class: Set of version attributes 12
6.3.7 Class: Extended attributes 13
6.3.8 Class: State changes 13
6.3.9 Class: Business rules 14
6.3.10 Class: Classification criteria 14

7 The reference information models 15
7.1 Classification objects 15
7.1.1 Scope 15
7.1.2 UML information model 15
7.1.3 Specification of the individual classes 16
7.2 Subject of care objects 19
7.2.1 Scope 19
7.2.2 UML information model 19
7.2.3 Specification of the individual classes 20
7.3 Activity management objects 25
7.3.1 Scope 25
7.3.2 UML information model 25
7.3.3 Specification of the individual classes 26
7.4 Clinical and health information objects 33
7.4.1 Scope 33
7.4.2 UML information model 33
7.4.3 Specification of the individual classes 34

7.5 Resource management objects 39
7.5.1 Scope 39
7.5.2 UML information model 39
7.5.3 Specification of the individual classes 40
7.6 User and authorization objects 45
7.6.1 Scope 45
7.6.2 UML information model 46
7.6.3 Specification of the individual classes 47
7.7 Messaging Objects 51
7.7.1 Scope 51
7.7.2 UML information model 52
7.7.3 Specification of the individual classes 52

Annex A (informative) Mappings between HISA and GPIC 56

Bibliography 58