DIN EN 16931-1:2026-10 (E)

Electronic invoicing - Part 1: Semantic data model of the core elements of an electronic invoice

Contents

Page

European foreword 3

Introduction 5

1 Scope 6

2 Normative references 6

3 Terms and definitions 7

4 The concept of a core invoice 9
4.1 The Core invoice model as a response to the challenge of interoperability 9
4.2 of the Core invoice model 10
4.3 How to use and extend the Core invoice model 11
4.4 Conformance 12

5 Business processes and functionality supported by the core invoice 13
5.1 The business parties involved and their roles and relationships 13
5.2 Business process requirements supported 14
5.3 Invoicing functionality supported 24
5.4 The Core invoice model in relation to other documents in the procurement process 31

6 The Semantic data model of the Core Elements of an Electronic invoice and credit note ..32
6.1 General 32
6.2 Legend 34
6.3 The Semantic Data Model 36
6.4 Business rules 71
6.5 Semantic data types 99

7 Core Invoice Usage Specification 105
7.1 General 105
7.2 Conformance 106
7.3 What may be specified in a CIUS 106
7.4 Documentation of Core Invoice Usage Specifications 109
7.5 Mapping to Syntax 110
7.6 Identification of Core Invoice Usage Specifications 110

Annex B (informative) How the Semantic Data Model meets legal requirements from relevant directives 156

Annex C (informative) BPMN symbols 161

Bibliography 163